Section M - Evaluation Factors for Award

The Government intends to award a single firm-fixed-price contract to the responsible Offeror whose proposal conforms to the solicitation and represents the best value to the Government, price and other factors considered.

To be eligible for award, an Offeror's proposal must be determined technically acceptable and comply with all material solicitation requirements.

The evaluation factors are listed below in descending order of importance:

Technical acceptability;

Price; and

Service Start Date.

Price is significantly more important than Service Start Date. The Government may award to an Offeror other than the lowest-priced Offeror when the evaluated benefit of an earlier, credible Service Start Date justifies payment of the associated price premium.

Technical Acceptability

The Government will evaluate technical acceptability on a pass/fail basis. To be determined technically acceptable, the Offeror shall demonstrate compliance with the PWS requirements, including provision, installation, activation, testing, maintenance, and support for two independent 3 Gbps symmetric dedicated internet access circuits.

A proposal that fails to meet a material PWS requirement may be eliminated from further consideration.

Price

The Government will evaluate total evaluated price by adding the total price for the base period and all option periods. The Government will also evaluate the potential six-month extension of services in accordance with FAR 52.217-8 by adding half the value of the last option year to the total offer price for evaluation purposes.

Price evaluation will include all nonrecurring installation, activation, permitting, special-construction, equipment, monthly recurring, maintenance, support, local-fee, and other charges necessary for complete performance.

Service Start Date

Service Start Date means the date on which both required circuits are installed, activated, fully operational, successfully complete all required acceptance testing, and are available for Government use at the required demarcation points.

Offerors shall propose one binding Service Start Date, expressed as the number of calendar days after contract award. The proposed Service Start Date shall not be later than 50 calendar days after award.

Offerors shall submit a brief milestone schedule or an anticipated list of tasks required to support the proposed Service Start Date. This schedule must identify site-survey; design; permitting; fiber availability or construction; equipment delivery; installation; turn-up; testing; and Government acceptance. The Offeror shall identify any assumptions, dependencies, risks, and Government actions necessary to meet the proposed date.

The Government will evaluate the proposed Service Start Date for both earliness and credibility. A proposed date that is unsupported, inconsistent with the Offeror's milestone schedule, dependent on unidentified contingencies, or otherwise unrealistic may be evaluated as unacceptable.

Evaluation-Commercial Products and Commercial Services (Feb 2026) (Deviation 2026-O0038)

(a) Evaluation factors. The Government will award a contract resulting from this solicitation to the responsible Offeror whose offer conforming to the solicitation will be most advantageous to the Government, price and other factors considered. The following factors will be used to evaluate offers:

(i) Technical Acceptability

(ii) Price

(iii) Service Start Date

Price is significantly more important than Service Start Date. The Government may award to an Offeror other than the lowest-priced Offeror when the evaluated benefit of an earlier, credible Service Start Date justifies payment of the associated price premium.

(b) Options (if applicable). The Government will evaluate offers for award purposes by adding the total price for all options to the total price for the basic requirement. The Government may determine that an offer is unacceptable if the option prices are significantly unbalanced. The evaluation of options does not obligate the Government to exercise the option(s).

(c) Notice of award. A written notice of award or acceptance of an offer furnished to the successful Offeror within the time for acceptance specified in the offer, shall result in a binding contract without further action by either party. Before the offer's specified expiration time, the Government may accept an offer (or part of an offer), whether or not there are negotiations after its receipt, unless a written notice of withdrawal is received before award.
