| 1 | Question cutoff. The combined synopsis/solicitation does not state a deadline for offeror questions or a date by which the Government will respond. Please confirm the cutoff date and the anticipated answer date, so offerors can incorporate responses before the 1 September 2026 deadline.                                                                                                                                                                   | Questions were cutoff in accordance with Amendment 2. The Government acknowledges your inquiry regarding the deadline for questions. To ensure fair and equal opportunity for all prospective offerors, an amendment to the combined synopsis/solicitation will be issued shortly via sam.gov. This amendment will formally establish the cutoff date and time for the receipt of all offeror questions, as well as the anticipated date for the Government's consolidated responses. In the interim, offerors are encouraged to submit any currently drafted questions as soon as possible. As a reminder, all questions and the Government's responses will be published for all potential offerors to review, without identifying the submitting vendor                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     |

| 7 | Staffing baseline. PWS 3.6.4 provides estimated annual workload volumes but no minimum staffing, no labor-hour estimate, and no incumbent FTE count. To allow realistic and comparable fixed-price offers, please provide the current staffing level by labor category and site, or confirm that staffing is left entirely to the offeror's technical approach.                                                                                                   | Per PWS Appendix C, Labor Category Description-Qualifications, Note: This is a Performance-Based Acquisition. While the Government may provide historical workload data, estimated transaction volumes, or a projected Level of Effort (LOE) for informational and planning purposes, these figures do not constitute a guaranteed minimum or maximum requirement. It is the sole responsibility of the Offeror to conduct an independent analysis of the Performance Work Statement (PWS) and determine the optimal labor mix—including specific labor categories, skill levels, and the total Level of Effort (FTEs/Hours)—necessary to successfully execute all contract requirements. The Offeror's proposed staffing approach must demonstrate a clear, independent technical methodology that ensures all Acceptable Quality Levels (AQLs) detailed in the Performance Requirements Summary (PRS) will be met or exceeded. The Government assumes no liability for Offerors who rely on Government-provided estimates or historical data in lieu of their own comprehensive technical and staffing assessments. |
| 8 | Incumbent contract. PWS 4.13.1.1 requires coordination with an outgoing contractor. Please identify the incumbent contract number and contractor, and the current contract's annual value, or confirm that this is a new requirement.                                                                                                                                                                                                                             | Offerors may review prior contract award records on SAM.gov to identify the incumbent contract, contractor, and available funding history.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                          |

| 52 | Is there a Government wage/labor rate estimate or historical incumbent staffing level (e.g., via a prior CPARS, task order history, or FOIA-releasable IGCE) that can be shared to help offerors size the workforce accurately?                                                                                                                                                                                         | Per PWS Appendix C, Labor Category Description-Qualifications, Note: This is a Performance-Based Acquisition. While the Government may provide historical workload data, estimated transaction volumes, or a projected Level of Effort (LOE) for informational and planning purposes, these figures do not constitute a guaranteed minimum or maximum requirement. It is the sole responsibility of the Offeror to conduct an independent analysis of the Performance Work Statement (PWS) and determine the optimal labor mix—including specific labor categories, skill levels, and the total Level of Effort (FTEs/Hours)—necessary to successfully execute all contract requirements.The Offeror's proposed staffing approach must demonstrate a clear, independent technical methodology that ensures all Acceptable Quality Levels (AQLs) detailed in the Performance Requirements Summary (PRS) will be met or exceeded. The Government assumes no liability for Offerors who rely on Government-provided estimates or historical data in lieu of their own comprehensive technical and staffing assessments. |

| 59 | For the six Volume 2 operational scenarios and six Volume 3 management scenarios, will responses be evaluated primarily on approach/methodology, or is prior demonstrated experience with directly analogous scenarios (e.g., actual LMP/GCSS-Army integration work) required to score well?                                                                                                                            | Responses for both Volume 2 and Volume 3 scenarios will be evaluated on the offeror's proposed approach and methodology. While demonstrated experience may strengthen a proposal, the primary basis of evaluation is the soundness of the proposed approach to the scenarios as presented.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                   |

Yes or No? | Per PWS Appendix C, Labor Category Description-Qualifications, Note: This is a Performance-Based Acquisition. While the Government may provide historical workload data, estimated transaction volumes, or a projected Level of Effort (LOE) for informational and planning purposes, these figures do not constitute a guaranteed minimum or maximum requirement. It is the sole responsibility of the Offeror to conduct an independent analysis of the Performance Work Statement (PWS) and determine the optimal labor mix—including specific labor categories, skill levels, and the total Level of Effort (FTEs/Hours)—necessary to successfully execute all contract requirements. The Offeror’s proposed staffing approach must demonstrate a clear, independent technical methodology that ensures all Acceptable Quality Levels (AQLs) detailed in the Performance Requirements Summary (PRS) will be met or exceeded. The Government assumes no liability for Offerors who rely on Government-provided estimates or historical data in lieu of their own comprehensive technical and staffing assessments. |

| 79 | Appendix E (QASP), §2.2, states this is a "Single-Award, Indefinite Delivery/Indefinite Quantity (IDIQ) hybrid contract, consisting of Firm-Fixed-Price (FFP) line items for labor and services, and Cost-Plus-Fixed-Fee (CPFF)/Cost-Reimbursable line items for travel and materials." However, the Section B CLIN schedule identifies every CLIN — including Material AWCf (1005/1013), Travel (1006/1014), and ODCs (1007/1015) — as "FFP Not-to-Exceed (NTE)," and the Section L addendum directs offerors to propose these lines using fixed, Government-mandated unburdened plug-in values rolled into a single Total Evaluated Price — consistent with FFP, not cost reimbursement. | 81 | If cost-reimbursement (CPFF) pricing does apply to the Material, Travel, or ODC CLINs, please clarify: (a) whether the mandatory "exact unburdened" plug-in values in the Section L addendum ($27,500 Material / $6,000 Travel / $88,500 ODC per weapon system) still apply as fixed ceiling estimates, or whether offerors should instead propose burdened indirect rates and fee as customary under CPFF; and (b) whether the stated exemption from Certified Cost or Pricing Data (Volume 5 instructions) still applies, since CPFF pricing ordinarily requires certified cost or pricing data above the TINA threshold.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                     | This requirement is FFP. General Submission Requirements 115 "Volume V (Price) shall be submitted as an MS Excel file with all formulas intact." Will the Government provide a standard Microsoft Excel pricing workbook that mirrors the complete Section B CLIN structure? If not, please confirm that offerors may submit an independently developed workbook, provided it accurately reflects the Section B CLIN numbers, periods of performance, pricing entries, and formulas.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               | You may submit an independently developed workbook as long as it is in accordance with the instructions in the RFP                                                                                                                                                                                               |

The contract is a Single-Award, Indefinite Delivery/Indefinite Quantity (IDIQ) hybrid contract, consisting of Firm-Fixed-Price (FFP) line items for labor and services, and Cost-Plus-Fixed-Fee (CPFF)/Cost-Reimbursable line items for travel and materials. Quality requirements are identified in FAR Clause 52.246-4, Inspection of Services—Fixed Price. The contractor is also responsible for recurring reports as specified in the Performance Work Statement and the attached CDRL table." Section B identifies all CLINs—including the Travel and Other Direct Cost (ODC) CLINs (1006, 1007, 1014, 1015, and their option-period equivalents)—as Firm-Fixed-Price (FFP). However, Appendix E §2.2 describes a hybrid contract and refers to CPFF/cost-reimbursable line items for travel and materials. Please clarify which pricing structure governs. Specifically, should offerors price travel and materials as FFP amounts in Section B, or as CPFF/cost-reimbursable items? Section B divides labor into “Missiles” and “Aviation” commodity groups, with twin SCA-exempt and SCA/non-exempt labor CLINs. PWS Appendix C, however, organizes the labor categories and estimated staffing by location—Fort Bliss for warehouse/logistics support and Redstone Arsenal for analytical support. Please provide the intended mapping between the Missiles/Aviation CLIN groups and the Fort Bliss/Redstone Arsenal staffing structure. For example, should labor at each location be allocated across both commodity groups, or does each commodity group correspond to a specific location or labor-category mix?                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                      | This is a Performance-Based Acquisition. In alignment with Federal Acquisition Regulation (FAR) 7.108, the Contractor may authorize situational remote work for extenuating circumstances, provided mission functions are executed without degradation; furthermore, the Contracting Officer's Representative (COR) may authorize situational off-site performance during inclement weather or facility closures for tasks that do not necessitate a physical presence. Any deviations from the established 40-hour schedule require prior written approval from the COR. Overtime may be authorized to support urgent, Government-approved supply chain and warehouse operations, such as asset handling or addressing sporadic bottlenecks, provided it does not exceed 46 hours per week or 92 hours per two-week pay period. All overtime must comply with the Contract Work Hours and Safety Standards Act (CWHSSA) and the Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA), with compensation applied only to hours actually worked, excluding non-work hours such as paid holidays and leave."The SCA-Exempt Labor Overtime and SCA Labor Overtime CLINs (1002, 1004, and their option-period equivalents) are identified as FFP “Lot” items, but the schedule provides no estimated hours or hourly unit rates. Please clarify the intended pricing and billing methodology: (a) should these CLINs remain FFP “Lot” items or be structured as Labor-Hour CLINs; (b) what estimated hours or other basis should offerors use to develop the proposed price; (c) will invoicing be based on fixed installments or only on overtime hours authorized and actually worked, consistent with PWS §2.5.1; and (d) if billing is based on actual hours, what rate or unit-price basis should be used to calculate partial CLIN billings? | The USG will provide official authorization if overtime is required. | 123 | Attachment 0001 – SCOS PWSPWS 5 – Service Support Surge (Option)PWS 24“Upon written authorization, the contractor shall provide surge support, including programmatic management, data analysis, and additional labor as required.”Please clarify the anticipated scope of the Service Support Surge option, including whether surge requirements may apply to both Fort Bliss and Redstone Arsenal and whether activation may require additional labor categories, personnel, or performance locations beyond those contemplated by the base requirement. | IAW PWS Paragraph 5, the Service Support Surge Option provide surge support, including programmatic management, data analysis, and additional labor as required. It requires formal written authorization from the Contracting Officer. It covers programmatic management, data analysis, and additional labor as needed to handle increased workloads. Any activities performed under the surge must adhere strictly to the same standards and quality requirements established for the base contract. The SCOPE of this Surge is called out in PWS 1.4. The scope of the surge is "To Be Determined," based on later occurring surge requirements.□                                                                                                                                                    |
